

DAVE ARMO - BIOGRAPHY

Dave Armo was born in Daly City, California. Songwriting for Dave has become an endless endeavor which continues to produce new sounds for an ever-expanding catalog that is seemingly marked by hope and redemption. Fans are known to bring homemade cookies to his live shows, which is something Armo does not understand, but greatly appreciates. In 2004, Armo released his debut album "Late Night Conversations." In 2005, Dave began diverting funds from his graduate student loans to record his second album, "A Leaf In The Breezeway," which was released in December, 2007. A tour in support of the new album has placed Dave in venues across the country. He rents an apartment in San Diego, California, but his heart belongs to the Oakland Athletics.

Quotes

"Beautifully tender, smooth, heart-felt, passionate, rockin' tracks... The melodies grip you, and the lyrics move you. Armo's compositions and arrangements are so tightly woven that you will be discovering lovely new dimensions after many, many listens."

– Jake Cosden, Producer

"Dave Armo is one of the most graceful singer-songwriters to break out in the last five years. What sets Armo aside from Mayer, Matthews and Johnson is the authenticity of his voice as well as his lyrics."

– FeinFilm Times

"Our generation's Neil Young."

– Jeff Rolka, San Francisco Producer

"A great image-oriented lyricist and melodic tunesmith! Dave Armo's music has a refreshingly positive vibe to it---and we need it now more than ever."

- Andrew Griffin, San Francisco Producer
